Part of Truman Plan to Pass

Council Turns Down Rezoning Request In Stormy Session

Cheers and loud applause from a group of 50 spectators greeted the decision of the Ontario city council last night to refuse the request of Ralph B. Marks to rezone an area on East Fourth street from R1 single family to R2 duplex dwellings.

The council had at an earlier meeting taken up the matter for a final hearing and decided to check the claims of some 65 residents that the rezoning would injure the valuation of their property.

Marks, who did not appear at the council meeting, sent a letter to be read by the clerk which made the claim that the petitioners opposing the rezoning did not actually reside in the area.

Unable to Sell

He also stated that he was unable to sell some of his property because the area was restricted to single families. Residents, who spoke loud and earnestly, explained that they had tried to buy some of the property and had not been able to raise the exhorbitant sums that Marks wanted for it, and that their homes were within the required 300 feet of property to be rezoned.

In a three to two vote, the council decided to turn down the request, originally approved by the city planning commission. Those voting against were Mayor Roy D. Boles, Joseph Aime and G. E. McQuatters. Those for the change were Oregon Smith and E. Miller Dietz.

Council approved the purchase of three cars for the police department and one truck for the fire department. The cars will be one Ford, one Chevrolet and one Pontiac. The fire truck will be a Dodge with deluxe cab.

Adopt Rules

A resolution was passed endorsing and adopting the rules of the state disaster council, thus becoming eligible to place disaster service workers under workmen's compensation benefit protection.

Having been held over for some months, the handbill ordinance received its first reading at council meeting last night. The bill provides for licenses which must be obtained by both commercial and non-commercial distributors of handbills and other printed matter.

Matter considered to be commercial would come under the provision of being required to pay a license fee. Non-commercial matter would require a permit, but no fee, according to the ordinance which was introduced by Councilman G. E. McQuatters.

Following disapproval expressed by Councilman Oregon Smith, who said some of the provisions of the ordinance were unconstitutional, the council decided to hold over any decision until their next meeting, when a thorough discussion would be held.

Tales OF TWO CITIES

G. WASHINGTON

The subject of inflation and the old saw about George Washington chucking a dollar across the Potomac seem to have fascinated newspaper cartoonists this Feb. 22.

We saw three or four which carried that theme. The cartoonists, however, seem to be somewhat at a loss as to whether the dollar has shrunk or the Potomac has grown in the 200 or so years that have intervened since George's famous toss.

REVIEW

The "dollar" story, along with the account of how George chopped down a cherry tree and couldn't tell a lie has been pretty thoroughly debunked by a multitude of historians.

But although a lot of myths surround his name, George was still quite a man. The book which most feel is destined to become the authentic history of his life is being written now (two volumes have appeared, four are to come) by the Virginian, Douglas Southall Freeman, author of "R. E. Lee".

According to the reviews (we haven't read the books as yet) the youthful Washington is set forth as a man with many faults —lack of a sense of humor is one of them—but with those rugged virtues which enabled him to become, in the truest sense, the father of his country.

NO GO

Our project to initiate correspondence with a newspaper in another of the U. S.'s several Uplands has been frustrated apparently. We've checked and discovered that Upland, Pennsylvania, largest of the "other Uplands", has no newspaper, either daily or weekly.

DISAPPOINTED

Understand the male portion of the overflow throng at the Ontario "Y" gym last night were a badly disappointed bunch. Not that the basketball game between Jim Hardy's Dynamiters and the local squad wasn't a good one—it was. But it seems a lot of the boys turned out for a look at actress Jane Russell, wife of Dynamiter Bob Waterfield, the Rams quarterback. Waterfield and several other of the visiting players didn't make it, however. And, much to the sorrow of several, neither did Jane.

PROTEST MARCH

NEW YORK, (AP) — Thousands of paraders organized by the Knights of Columbus marched up Fifth avenue today in a cold rain to protest "the unspeakable mistreatment of Cardinal Mindszenty."

Housing Bill Is Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill aimed at giving middle income families a chance to build or rent low-cost housing was introduced today by Reps. Douglas (D-Calif.) and Buchanan (D-Pa.).

Buchanan, a member of the house banking and currency committee, said the measure would make possible the building of homes for sale or rental to private individuals or groups at monthly charges as low as $50.

Mrs. Douglas said the principles of the bill have been endorsed by veterans and labor organizations "and for the first time by leaders of the real estate industry".

The bill, Buchanan said, is designed to help especially those faced with eviction from public housing projects because their incomes have risen to a point to make them ineligible to receive public housing benefits.

SOLONS WILL BATTLE FOR STRONG PACT

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Five senators prepared today to fight any move which might water down the terms of the proposed Atlantic defense treaty in senate debate.

Five members of the senate foreign relations committee said privately they are ready to demand individually the strongest sort of pledge possible—short of an automatic war declaration—that this country will back its friends in Europe if they are threatened by communist aggression.

It is their view that the tentative treaty language on this point, as shown the senate foreign relations committee last week by Secretary of State Acheson, is satisfactory—if it is not weakened in senate debate.

The exact language has remained secret but an influential democratic senator said it will give signatory nations assurances the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack.

Some other senators said they fear the drive to get approval of the treaty by the necessary two-thirds senate vote might bring some between-the-lines interpretations that would destroy its usefulness as a psychological weapon.

Air Squadron Will Conduct Recruit Drive

With the announced aim of doubling the squadron's strength before June 1, the 149th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, based at Ontario International airport, has launched a recruiting contest.

The squadron is composed of men from Upland, Ontario, Pomona, Chino, LaVerne, San Dimas, Glendora, Claremont, Cucamonga and Fontana. The recruiting drive is being conducted as a contest between the towns.

Members of the squadron are paid a minimum of $2.50 per drill attended. More than $2000 was disbursed to members at last night's drill with each airman being paid by check for the number of drills he attended during the months of October, November and December, 1948.

Tag Day Here Gains $234

Prizes were awarded to those children selling the most tags, with Phyllis Burkholder coming out on top and winning a baby Brownie camera donated by Swanie's shop.

Other prize winners were as follows:

Emma Sue Tollison, a locket donated by Scott's jewelers; Carol Campbell, a prize given by Dunlop's Jewelry and Terry Cain, a jacknife given by Upland Jeweler's.

Kenneth Brown won a carving tool set given by Firestone store; Rosetta Newell a charm bracelet, donated by Palmer's sporting goods shop and Marilyn McIntosh a billfold given by J. J. Atwood Co.

A fountain pen given by Wise Pharmacy went to Eddie Porter. Roger McMaster got a photograph album given by Harris pharmacy while Roger Weisbrod won stationery given by the Upland pharmacy.

All children who collected over $3 but did not win a prize were given Grove theater passes.

Expelled U. S. Writer Now In Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland., (AP) —Anna Louise Strong, American journalist deported from Russia, left Warsaw today for an undisclosed destination.

A Warsaw hotel reported she arrived secretly Saturday. The arrival was not mentioned in Polish newspapers, which a few months ago had splashed her articles favorable to the communists. She was deported by the Soviet Union on charges of having been a spy.

Moscow announced the deportation only today, through this brief announcement in the Soviet press:

"The arrested American woman journalist A. Strong was deported from the U. S. S. R." It did not state where she was deported.

Miss Strong's arrest was announced in the Moscow press Feb. 15.

Two days later the Soviet ministry of foreign affairs confirmed to the U. S. embassy in Moscow that she had been arrested for spying and "subversive activities" and would be deported.

Foy Kohler, charge d'affaires at the U. S. embassy in Moscow said he had received no word of the disposition of the case of Miss Strong.

Atomic Rescue Teams Planned

Wilson said the armed forces would be expected to cooperate in any rescue work.

Russ Rocket Found In U. S. Berlin Zone

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, (AP) — U. S. authorities said today a Russian rocket fired in practice during maneuvers landed some time ago in the American zone of Germany without causing any damage or injuries.

The incident had been filed away in the top secret category because it would have served no purpose to make it public at the time, a high American officer said.

"It was a rocket of the ordinary type and nothing unusual in its construction," the officer said.

The rocket was found a short distance across the American side of the zonal boundary in a remote and unpopulated area.

No Harm Done

"Apparently it was fired during practice and strayed a little off course," the officer said. "There was no harm done."

The Soviet army in Germany engaged in widespread maneuvers last fall and it is possible the rocket was fired then. An airlift pilot reported in November he saw Soviet tanks firing what seemed to him to be unusual guns which he thought were anti-aircraft.

The army classified the discovery of the rocket so secret that the details still are and will remain so. However, a high Berlin source who is in a position to know minimized the incident.

The rocket apparently was undercharged. This is the type used only in maneuvers, the sources said. It left a shallow crater about a foot deep.

Only Known One

It was the only rocket known to have landed in the U. S. zone, the officer said. The Germans have reported other instances, but there has been nothing to substantiate these reports.

The disclosure came as the Russians lashed out anew with propaganda blasts against the west. Lt. Gen. G. S. Lukanschenko, Soviet chief of staff in Germany, charged that the United States is holding more than 100,000 Soviet citizens in Western Germany.

Birthday of Washington Is Observed

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The capital observed the 217th anniversary of George Washington's birth today with parades and wreath-laying ceremonies at the first President's tomb.

Central event of the day was the ceremony sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Mount Vernon, where Washington lived and was buried. President Truman sent a wreath.

The day was a holiday for government workers.

But both houses of Congress were called together for the traditional reading of the first President's farewell address. And several congressional committees held hearings.

President Truman spent the holiday working on an important democratic speech he will make to the Jefferson-Jackson day $100 a plate dinner here Thursday (7:30 p.m. P.S.T)

The speech will be carried by the four major radio networks.

'Rigid' Price Supports Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Hoover commission subgroup on agriculture jumped into the congressional controversy today over whether future farm price supports should be rigid or flexible.

The commission's "task force" committee on agricultural activities said the flexible price support system embodied in the Aiken bill passed by the Republican 80th Congress is a "major step in the right direction".

No action should be taken by Congress, the committee said, to continue the present rigid 90 per cent-of-parity supports beyond the end of this year. The flexible system authorizes supports from zero to 90 per cent of parity, depending on the supply. Parity is a legal standard for measuring farm prices, designed to be equally fair to consumers and farmers.

The Hoover commission itself took no sides on the question. A strong farm bloc in Congress is demanding repeal of the Aiken law and continuation of the rigid, 90 per cent parity support system.

The task force said continuation of the present system would expose the government to "large financial loss" and would "needlessly postpone" adjustment of farm production to peacetime needs.

Among those pledged in Kappa Sigma was Hugh Wass, of Upland.

Charge T-H Law Cause Of 'Friction'

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The National labor relations board chairman said today the Taft-Hartley law has brought "friction" between the board and its general counsel.

Paul M. Herzog, the NLRB chairman, cited examples of "friction, delay, uncertainty and unnecessary litigation" in a letter to Senator Wayne Morse (R-Ore.)

Morse put the letter into the senate labor committee record. The committee is holding hearings on the administration's bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley law and restore the old Wagner labor relations act with some changes.

At the time Morse produced the letter, Gerhard P. Van Arkel, a former NLRB counsel, was in the committee's witness chair. He had just testified that he beileves the Taft-Hartley law has "positively discouraged" collective bargaining.

Van Arkel quit as NLRB counsel in 1947 in protest against the T-H law. He was succeeded by Robert N. Denham, and it was to relations between the board and Denham that Herzog referred.

BROAD AID PROGRAM IS SCRUTINIZED

By FRANCIS M. LeMAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawmakers gave this answer today to President Truman's request for a vast expansion of the social security system: some of it may pass—but not the whole thing.

The bill Mr. Truman sent to capital hill yesterday proposed: (a) providing direct "home relief" to all needy persons; (b) blanketing 20,000,000 more persons under old age insurance; (c) greatly increasing the benefits; (d) raising—in some cases, tripling—the tax on paychecks and pay rolls.

It was the "home relief" idea which ran into the closest scrutiny in Congress.

Top Democratic managers of security legislation — Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the house ways and means committee, and Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee—took no position on the bill.

Payroll Tax

The program calls for an increase in payroll taxes from the present $1,800,000,000 for old age and survivors insurance, to about $6,000,000,000.

It would boost individual payroll taxes 100 per cent or more. The tax on a person making $4800 or more could be increased from a top of $30 to $96 a year.

The expanded insurance program would cover a total of 50,000,000 persons.

Members of Congress said they had no idea how far the unprecedented "home relief" program could go or what the overall cost would be.

Under this phase, the maximum payment in which the federal government would participate would be $50 a month for one person; $50 for the first additional person in a home, and $20 for each additional person. States would contribute 40 to 75 per cent of the cost, according to state wealth.

Now Limited

Such assistance from the federal treasury's general fund, outside the insurance program, now is limited to needy aged persons, the blind and dependent children. It now costs about $1,000,000,000 a year.

(Mr. Truman, in response to a question at his news conference last Thursday, said he never had heard of a proposal to give "home relief" to all poor people).

The new bill proposes one other departure: disability insurance, under which employes covered by old age insurance would get short time sickness benefits.

Doughton introduced the President's legislation. But he told reporters he did this at Mr. Truman's request and that he is not sponsoring the bill.

Says Privates Better Treated Than Generals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army treats its recruits better than it does its generals.

That, at least, is the conclusion of Lawrence H. Whiting, member of a civilian commission appointed to study military pay and pensions.

He told a House armed services subcommittee today that the recruit is paid more than he could get in civilian life, but the general gets much less.

Whiting, a Chicago business man, testified in support of a bill to raise pay an average of 14 per cent for the army, air force, navy, marines, coast guard, public health service and coast and geodetic survey.

The proposed increases range from 3.03 per cent for the lowest enlisted grades to 49.58 per cent for brigadier generals and officers of equivalent rank in the other services. Only the recruit, or navy "boot", the lowest enlisted rank, would get no increase.

Whiting said the commission estimates that a man entering military service draws the equivalent of $183 a month in pay, food, clothing and shelter.

"This is more than he could get anywhere in industry for the same responsibility and experience," Whiting said.

Autos Damaged In Accident

Answer Questions On School Bonds

(Note: This article is one of a series prepared by the school to provide information about the $3,000,000 Chaffey high school bond election March 4.)

The proposed expansion program has been planned to meet the educational needs of both the Fontana area and the balance of the district.

Both portions of the district would realize important benefits, financially and educationally. For the plan is so designed that what helps one area also helps the other, at a saving to both.

To assure an accurate understanding of the mutual gains proposed in the expansion program, some of the most frequently asked questions are answered in today's article, with others to follow in later issues.

Question — If Fontana should withdraw from the Chaffey District after the new high school is built there, would the division be fair financially to all parts of the district?

Question — What would Fontana receive?

Answer — Fontana would receive title to the proposed new high school, the cost of which will be $1,500,000. The Fontana area will pay $760,000 of this amount on the basis of present assessed valuation. Should Fontana later withdraw, the $740,000 difference would be a liberal settlement for their equity in the Chaffey campus.

Question—Will the bonds provide comparable benefits for the balance of the district?

Answer — Yes, with Fontana pupils attending high school in Fontana, the present Chaffey campus could handle a growth of at least 800 more students.

Question—What does that represent financially?

Answer—It would be equivalent to over a million dollars worth of new buildings and equipment. For at today's prices, it costs $1500 to provide complete facilities for one student. Space and facilities for 800 students, therefore, would cost $1,200,000. This is the value in additional school capacity the balance of the district would receive by paying $740,000 toward the high school at Fontana.

In addition, of course, the expansion program would provide a half million dollars for completion of the present Chaffey campus.

The interests of both ends of the district—financial and educational—have been considered, and protected. And in this fact are found the principal benefits of the proposed expansion program, to be presented to Chaffey District voters on Friday, March 4.

(Another article prepared by the Chaffey administration concerning the high school expansion program will appear tomorrow.)

Good Neighbor Club Plans Discussed

Plans for the newly organized Good Neighbor club were discussed at a meeting last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Charles Hobart, 1256 East Ely, Ontario.

An elaborate luncheon was served by the hostess around a cleverly decorated table.

Mrs. R. B. Church, organizer of the club, suggested the yellow rose for the club flower. The group decided to contribute to the Junior Police fund and also to a fund to be started for Casa Colina for their Christmas party. Final details will be taken care of at the next meeting.

The group plans to meet the first Wednesday of every month. The purpose of the Good Neighbor club is to aid the youth as well as younger children and babies. It is the hope of the club to make it a community organization.

Chaffey Wives Hear Outstanding Guest Speaker

The Chaffey Wives club meeting was held last night in the Little Theater on the Chaffey campus. Speaker for the evening was Pansy Ham, artist and instructor in china painting.

She told that the art of ceramics dates back 10 to 15 thousand years. She also stated that it is one of the earliest means of expressing how people live. The designs show different types and standards of living. One of the scientists says that every piece of china is a sentence out of history.

Mrs. Ham related about the Chinese making the finest, clearest and the thinist and the first china we have ever known.

She urged the collecting of old china as one of the most fascinating hobbies for women. She displayed an unusual collection of rare pieces which she illustrated her talk with. She also displayed many hand-painted pictures she had done herself.

The tea table was beautifully decorated in the red, white and blue color scheme. Mrs. Leo A. Wadsworth and Mrs. Daniel B. Milliken poured.

Hostesses for the evening were the Mesdames Dana Alexander, chairman; Rodney Arner, George Beardwood, George Culler, Elmer Glenn, Bernard Klepper, Alexander Minton, John Homewood, Edward Tomasian and E. V. Wiseman.

Agriculture Dept. Shifts To Save Millions--Hoover

Reorganization s Proposed

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The Hoover commission said today reorganization of the Agriculture Department could save taxpayers at least $80,000,000 a year. Also, it said, the changes would save farmers a lot of confusion.

In a report to Congress, the commission recommended a broad overhauling of the department—both in Washington and in the field—and transfer to it of some food and land activities now carried on by other governmental agencies.

End Duplication

From the farmer's standpoint, perhaps the most important recommendation is one which would unify the department's far-flung activities in each agricultural county to end what the commission called "duplications, overlappings and often conflicting policies."

The commission, a bipartisan group on government reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover, commended the department as a "vital and effective" agency in carrying out programs of value to farmers and consumers.

But its rapid growth has resulted, the report said, in what amounts to a "loose confederation of independent bureaus and agencies" which ofttern "overlap and duplicate."

Save Millions

Two members of the 12-man commission dissented from the estimate that the suggested reorganization would save $80,000,000 a year. The dissenters, Dean Acheson, who now is Secretary of State, and James H. Rowe, Jr., explained they did not believe that the estimated savings had been subjected to enough scrutiny."

At the Washington level the commission recommended that the department be reorganized so as to divide its activities among eight different units or services, as follows:

Research, extension, agricultural resources conservation, commodity adjustment, regulatory, agricultural credit, rural electrification and a secretary's staff service which would deal with such matters as finances, personnel, legal questions, information, supplies, research management and library.

The commission recommended that local farmer committees, first set up under the AAA crop control program, be divorced from administrative functions. These committees now help carry out department programs covering price supports, school lunches, soil conservation, acreage allotment, forestry and purchases.

NO CLASS HOLDS MONOPOLY ON BRAINS, CHI RESEARCHERS FIND

Allison Davis, professor of education at the University of Chicago, expounded that idea last night at the convention of the American Association of School Administrators (AASA).

Improved intelligence tests, Davis said, show that the children of laborers have as much native intelligence as those of professional persons when the tests are given in terms which the children understand.

The new tests, devised by Davis and Robert D. Hesse at Chicago, have established, he said, that "claims for superiority of children from the higher socio-economic groups" are strictly without foundation.

"The Chicago research has found," Davis continued, "that the 'smartness' of children of the higher income groups disappears as soon as the test problems are not cut to the same mould as used in school training."

Ex-Model Good Lawyer

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A former model, who fought her own case in court against her father and stepmother, won all the personal property she sought—except an old waffle iron.

A jury of nine men and two women yesterday unanimously awarded Mrs. Arturo Gay a cash settlement of $1338 and numerous articles of furniture and sporting equipment.

She said they had been withheld by her father, retired army Col. Paul J. Horton of Montclair, and her stepmother, Mrs. Helen N. Horton.

Mrs. Gay—slim, blonde, and in her twenties—had filed suit for $5000 worth of personal property. She said she could not afford a lawyer.

The jury made the cash settlement on items already sold by the father. The waffle iron, more than 15 years old, the jurors conceded, was Horton's.

Says Solons Fear Bureau

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Some senators are so fearful of the power of the bureau of reclamation that "they are not free men in their voting," Senator Downey (R-Calif) said today.

"They say they can't antagonize the bureau because of its power to allocate water in their states," Downey said.

He gave this testimony to a senate appropriations subcommittee in carrying on his fight against Michael Strauss, chief of the reclamation bureau.

Kuhn Freed By Court

MUNICH, Germany, (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, former leader of the German-American Bund, was freed today by a German appellate court. He said he would try at once to regain his American citizenship, lifted during the war.

A de-Nazification court had sentenced him to ten years as a major Nazi. The appeals court reduced the term to two years and took into consideration the 25 months he already had served in prison camps. That automatically freed him except for minor formalities.

The court ordered 20 per cent of his property confiscated. Kuhn, however, said he had no holdings in Germany.

Open Season On Republicans?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Democratic assemblyman's charge that it is open season "on all Republicans" during a clash with a legislative committee attorney sparked a hearing on operation of small loan companies in the state.

An argument broke out yesterday when William P. Gray, attorney for the joint legislative committee on lending transactions, said he had been trying to ask witnesses questions which would bring out all information. But, he added, Assemblyman Ralph Dills had indicated by "innuendo, statements and raucous laughter that I'm not".

He Should Be A Recruiter

CLEVELAND, (AP) — Because a civilian fellow passenger told him the army is "no good," a 28-year-old corporal wrecked about $1000 worth of equipment today on a New York Central train, police said.

Corporal John B. DeMille of Framingham, Mass., was finally subdued by porters and police and taken off the train here after going on a wrecking rampage through three cars.

Ferreri Death Plot Charged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Testimony that Mrs. Elizabeth Ferreri and two men carefully plotted the slaying of her husband was given by one of the men, who already has pleaded guilty to murdering him.

Allan Adron, 52, handyman in the Ferreri Wilshire district mansion, said the plans were made about an hour before playboy Jerome Ferreri, 32, was shot and hacked to death in the butler's pantry of his home, Oct. 26.

Gloria Swanson Returns To Films

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — Gloria Swanson, nearing her 51st birthday, has come back to Hollywood to play a role for which she is especially fitted—that of an ex-movie queen.

The woman who rose from a $2-a-day bathing beauty extra to a $12,000-a-week screen siren in the '20s and early '30s has signed a contract for a role in Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard."

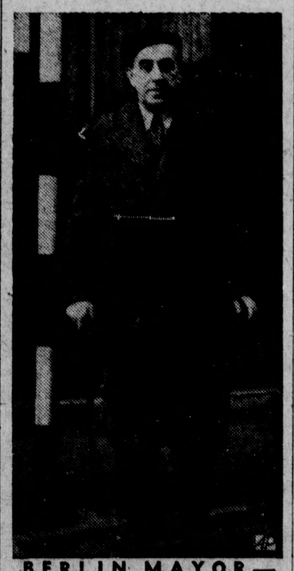

NOTHING LIKE BABY SITTING FOR STUDENTS

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., (AP) — Baby sitting, says a married 30-year-old Navy veteran, helps improve college grades.

Russell T. McLauchlan, balding father of a two-year-old daughter, nearly flunked out of Pennsylvania State college before he discovered this secret to better marks.

"The children go to bed early," McLauchlan says, "and that leaves the evening free for study."

Will Reveal Queen Friday

The identity of the National Orange Show's 1949 queen—an honor sought by more than 200 of the county's most beautiful daughters—will be revealed Friday night, Feb. 25, at the annual dinner of the San Bernardino County Chamber of Commerce at the Orange Show cafeteria. The meeting will start at 6:30.

During the past week or so, the field of contestants has been gradually narrowed down until 17 girls, each the winner in competition in her own community, will face the final judging. The event will be held at Arrowhead Springs Hotel starting at 9:30 a.m. on Feb. 25.

The name of the winner will be known only to three judges—men prominent in the entertainment world—until it is read at the chamber dinner by George A. Herz, 1949 president of the Orange Show. She will be crowned by Mr. Herz at that time.

The Hi-Y club is stronger and its president, Ronald Kenney, was among those selected to be present this past week-end at Sacramento for the first model legislature program in California, known as the youth and government program, he reported.

Thee Tri-Hi-Y for high school girls has just been organized. Their new president is Pat Vogan and Patricia Paden is advisor, he said. Also a new Phalan club for young men has been organized.

The new "Y" building is the center of activity for Ontario's youth, but the recent wave of juvenile delinquency only reminds us there is so much to be done and our limitations of finances stand out in bold face," he asserted.

Calling for an ever-expanding recreational program for the youth, he gave as some of the objectives to be more group organizations, clubs and teams for boys and girls, young men and young women and co-educational groups, as well as the establishment of a committee for women and girls' work to supervise and direct activities in this field.

Details Hazy, But Margaret To Get New Father

PALM BEACH, Fla., (AP) — It appeared certain that juvenile movie star Margaret O'Brien would acquire a stepfather today, but other details were hazy.

Margaret's mother, Mrs. Gladys O'Brien, is to marry Don Sylvio, Palm Beach and Hollywood orchestra leader. The bride and Margaret plan to fly to Boston tomorrow for an engagement, leaving the bridegroom here to provide music for the social set.

The time, the place, and the circumstances of the wedding remained unannounced—but county Judge Richard Robbins was to call at the couple's hotel late today, ready to perform a marriage ceremony if requested.

Previously the plan was for a ceremony in St. Edward's Catholic church. No reason for the change was given.

She Wouldn't Kiss Him So He Stabbed Her

VAN NUYS, (AP)—Robert Calvin Burke, 30, a metal polisher, was jailed today on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after Miss Vici Amendt, 24, complained that he stabbed her in the neck when she refused to kiss him.

Miss Amendt said she formerly kept company with Burke and agreed to accompany him to Sunland last night.

Book By Ex-Embassy Employe Brands U.S. Ambassador as Black Marketeer

MOSCOW, (AP) — The Russians have published a book under the name of Annabell Bucar, resigned U. S. embassy employe. It makes statements like these:

That U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith operated in the black market and ordered Russian employes in the embassy to sell for him such things as gold coins, watches and fountain pens.

That large speculators at the embassy go back to the United States with "tens of thousands of dollars worth" of art, illegally exported.

That some State department employes are "Germanophiles."

Without Foundation

(In Washington, Ambassador Smith said the charges "are completely without foundation." The same view was expressed there by Elbridge Durbrow who was counselor of embassy at Moscow two years. Durbrow said "this whole thing is absolutely cockeyed."

(Smith is at Walter Reed hospital in Washington where he has been undergoing treatment several weeks for a stomach ailment.)

("An American diplomat serving abroad," he told the Associated Press, has to conduct himself in such a way that he is completely above reproach, particularly in the Soviet Union. While I hate to dignify these charges to the extent of making a statement about them, they are completely without foundation.")

Former Coed

Miss Bucar is a former Pittsburgh University coed from Clairton, Pa., who quit a year ago as administrative assistant in the U. S. information service. In her letter of resignation she had complained embassy policy was directed against the Russians. At the same time she revealed she had been married for 13 months to Konstantin Lapshin, a Russian singer. She lives in Moscow and is the mother of a son.

The 132-page book, published by the Literary Gazette, is called "The Truth About American Diplomats." It is dedicated "to the bright memory of my mother."

'WE SMELL CHOW'—Hans and Fritz, a pair of Dachshunds, make the usual motions about lunch on their arrival from London at LaGuardia Field, New York, for an animal dealer.

Iowans Will Gather Saturday

State, county and city officials, both past and present, will be among an expected 100,000 natives of Iowa to converge on Lincoln Park Saturday, February 26th for their 50th annual winter picnic, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Glenn J. Greenwood, president of the Iowa association of Southern California.

A large contingent of Long Beach Iowans will be led by former California Governor Frank F. Merriam, who will come by special Pacific Electric train direct to the park. Other groups of Hawkeyes are expected from Pomona, Santa Ana, San Pedro and as far away as Bakersfield and San Diego.

Padua Having Comedy Romance

With principal characters to reappear in future plays of the series, members of the Mexican Players to present "Por El Camino Real," comedy romance of the days of the dons, at the Padua Hills Theatre, have just been announced.

The new play will be presented February 23 through April 2, as the first of a series reviving actual incidents in the lives of the early day rancheros in the Southland.

Porfiria and Enrique Lerma will provide the romantic interest, with Hilda Ramirez de Jara and Alfonso Chavez in the principal character parts, and Jacinta Vigil and Margarita Quintana in twin comedy roles.

YES---I AM HIS KEEPER

An editorial written exclusively for the Daily News-Herald for Brotherhood Week, February 20-27, 1949, by Cornelius F. Miller, editor of the American Federation of Labor Weekly News Service.

Brotherhood Week affords everyone an opportunity to consider his answer to the age-old question: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

On the answer to that question, made by every individual, may well hinge the success or failure of our democratic society and its much publicized and talked about dignity of the common man.

Some people will refuse to meet the challenge of the question and, with a shrug of their shoulders, dismiss it all with the familiar negative response based upon the it's-none-of-my-business theory. Others, and more intelligent folk, will realize the implications involved and through a bit of honest soul-searching come up with an affirmative answer.

To the citizen keenly aware of his responsibilities in the complicated society of the modern atomic age, with a firm faith in the democratic way of life, and with the moral fibre and courage required to face up to issues and to take a stand, there can be no other satisfactory answer.

To say "Yes" to this question does not mean that one is intent upon prying into another's private affairs or meddling in matters which do not concern one. An honest "Yes" means merely that one has a healthy realization that what affects one of us today, sooner or later may become destiny for all.

An affirmative answer should come in clear, strong tones: "I am my brother's keeper, and I can help him, regardless of his race, color, or religion, to protect his rights, and, thereby, my own."

Contempt of Court

By Robert Ruark

NEW YORK—All I know is, very next time they drag me off to court on a parking summons or a fractured red-light rap, I am going to kick up an awful holler. I am going to thumb my nose at the prosecutor, challenge the right of the judge to sit on the bench, give the bailiff a hotfoot, kick the cops in the shin, and render a razzberry unto the jury, if any.

I know my rights, see. Anytime I want to be contemptuous of the court, I got a good solid legal precedent for same, and I can also spit in the sheriff's eye. How do I know the bum is fit to be sheriff? Who was that lug Blackstone? What is a tort? I don't recognize any of that stuff. A penal code may be good enough for the peasants, but us hep kids don't have to hold still for law.

Permissible

Contempt of court certainly must be permissible in America today, because we have just had five solid weeks of it. The attorneys for the bevy of bull-Commies on trial here have spent better than a month in proving that you can be contemptuous every day, and still walk off unhandcuffed.

They have quarreled with Judge Harold Medina's right to preside, and they have argued lengthily against the jury system. They have been impertinent, irrelevant, and screamingly windy. They have wept, wailed, and insulted the judge, the country, both grand and petit juries, and the integrity of a trial system which is supposed to be the most enlightened in the world. They have disputed the right of a law officer to wear a gun, and their camp-followers have picketed the court. How contemptuous of a court do you have to get?

Bowed Back

Judge Medina has bowed his back continually before these intrepid legal eagles, in some sort of democratic effort to give them full rope. This might be construed as a lesson in tolerance, or even as a sermon against the short - order, shoot - -him - quick courts of mother Russia, but it leaves me cold.

As an ordinary citizen, I claim to be just as good as any Communist, and you know what happens to old Homer Q. Sapiens, citizen, when he goes to court. Bang goes the gavel. Order in the court. Howjuhplead, guiltyrnot? Step down. Stand up. The court sentences you to . . . .

But judge, I . . . .

Shaddap. Yuh wanna be held in contempt?

But I . . . .

Justice Blind

As I read the constitution, justice is as blind as an umpire, and the mechanics of enforcing same are supposed to be equally applicable to prince and pauper. We have been hanging people for centuries, stowing them in jails, and fining them to the limit under a formal system of guilt determination. Either we have a workable set of penal houserules or we have been guilty of mass murder, wrongful imprisonment and illegal exactment of monetary tribute ever since lynch law quit and courthouse law took up.

The question before the judge is: Have these men conspired to overthrow the government? The question is not any of these: Is the American jury system constitutional? Is Medina himself a qualified judge? Is a Negro or a Jew the same as an American, when it comes to jury duty?

No murderer has yet voiced the gall to demand a jury of murderers to try him, no thief insisted on a panel of shoplifters. I weary of the judge's extended tolerance. Has he no respect for his own court, that he allows a flock of gabblers to impugn its dignity for five weeks?

All I know, Joe, is this: You steal a car or burn a house or shoot your mother-in-law, and the old boy on the bench ain't gonna listen to any sad tales, or hold still for any dialectics about the right of the court to convene. Did you steal the car? Did you fire the house? Guiltyrnot? And if you call the judge a bum for his impudence, you get hit with the book on top of the prescribed sentence.

Whatever happened to the penalty for contempt of court in New York, judge? Or is it purely a privilege of the common sinner?

Jew, Egypt In Agreement

TEL AVIV, Israel, (AP) — The Israeli cabinet has accepted a draft of a compromise armistice agreement with Egypt, an authoritative source reported today.

There was no immediate indication whether Cairo officials would also endorse the draft for the Egyptians.

At Rhodes it was reported that a copy of the draft was flown to Cairo. The Egyptian delegation asked until tomorrow for Egypt to make its position known.

Delegates of the two nations, meeting at Rhodes since Jan. 13 under United Nations auspices, were said there to have accepted the armistice agreement in principle except for one controversial point.

Egypt and other Arab nations went to war against Israel shortly after the new Jewish state was proclaimed nine months ago. Actual fighting ceased around the first of the year after a strong Jewish offensive.

The Tel Aviv informant said the armistice draft approved by the cabinet provided for a withdrawal of main military forces of both the Israelis and Egyptians only in the western Negev —a desert area on the Jewish-Egyptian frontier. He said it did not apply to the eastern Negev, where Beersheba, only important Negev city, is located.

Quake Authority Passes at 91

PALO ALTO, (AP)—The man who predicted the disastrous Santa Barbara earthquake of 1925, is dead. He was Dr. Bailey Willis, 91, known internationally as a seismologist and geologist and to thousands of Stanford university students as "Earthquake" Willis.

FUNNY ANGLES by Angelo

"It's a bad leak!"

Impetuosity and Bungling

By Dorothy Thompson

The impetuousness of American moves in foreign policy is despairing to other nations and menacing to our own. Other countries could put only one interpretation upon the statement in President Truman's inaugural address:

"The primary purpose (of the Atlantic pact) is to provide unmistakable proof of the joint determination of the free countries to resist armed attack from any quarter. Each country participating . . . must contribute all it can to the common defense.

"If we can make it sufficiently clear, in advance, that any armed attack affecting our national security would be met by overwhelming force, the armed attack might never occur."

That interpretation was that the United States was offering western Europe a military alliance to resist by force any aggression upon any member.

Now if we cannot, for constitutional reasons, offer other countries firm military alliances, the statement never should have been made. If there are ways by which it is possible to accomplish the same objective without involving the constitution, those ways should have been worked out in advance of any public statement between the President and the appropriate committees of Congress.

It is unconvincing to explain, as one Washington columnist did, that "the trouble arose from a fundamentally false idea, which the American negotiators, with the best of intentions, but for lack of experience, accepted." Why should we have negotiators lacking in experience?

Nor it is convincing to explain, as other Washington commentators did, that foreign countries should know our constitutional limitations, and that the visit of the Norwegian foreign minister was precipitate.

The plain fact is that before negotiations with other states are undertaken, the government of the United States must know exactly what it wants, exactly how it intends to attain it, and exactly what it can and cannot do.

To launch, as it were, a trial balloon in the hope that Congress will post factum find some way of making it good, is not a serious way to conduct high politics. The debate in Congress never should have occurred, as it did. The original negotiations should not have been between the administration and other countries, but between the administration and Congress.

Our foreign policy during the war was a series of faits accompli between heads of states, which Congress could do nothing but accept. Congress, for instance, never would have accepted Teheran or Yalta if there had not been a war on.

That time is over. Since the end of the war it has been necessary to think every measure through to the logical conclusion, anticipating and overcoming every difficulty in advance. Otherwise, the American system of checks and balances will result in each policy being checked out. Therefore, in policies involving other nations there is but one possible order of procedure: one, executive decision; two, clearance or modification with Congress; three, negotiations with others. Only after all these stages have been passed, and in this order, should the matter be thrown into public debate.

Even the Marshall plan succeeded more by good luck than good management. There, too, an arrow was shot into the air and promptly picked up in Europe. Suppose, then, Congress had rejected it? Or suppose the Russians also had picked it up, and the United States Congress had been asked to refinance the Communist economies?

In the case of the Atlantic pact, even Senator Connally, the administration's own man, was not prepared. Gossip has it that this was due to the lull between the retirement of Secretary Marshall and Undersecretary Lovett and the appointment of Mr. Acheson. On that theory the whole world can tremble if a secretary is changed within the same admin-

Lady Scorekeeper Is Dean of SMU Athletic Staff, Players Say She's Highly Efficient

AP Newsfeatures

DALLAS — The Arkansas player came to the scorer's bench. There were two sports writers and a woman sitting there. The player gave his name to one of the men and started into the basketball game.

"Hey," the woman called. "Over here."

Pained at a female's intrusion into masculine business, the husky athlete inquired indignantly of the sports writer: "Do I have to tell HER?"

The woman instantly fixed fiery eyes on the player and archly informed him of a fact he will never forget.

"Listen, Junior," she said in oversweet tones, "I'll have you know I'm official scorekeeper."

The lady in the case, Miss Aline Hamlett, is constantly running into such things. For several years now she has been official scorer at all Southern Methodist basketball games. She is the only woman filling that position in the Southwest and perhaps in the nation.

When Notre Dame played Southern Methodist recently the eyebrows of several Fighting Irish players and officials were raised when they spotted Miss Hamlett, pencil in hand. But when the game was over they had high praise for her efficiency.

Aline has seniority in the Southern Methodist athletic department. She has been there longer than even Football Coach Matty Bell, who is athletic director. She joined the department in 1932. The only member outranking her is Pop Morgan, the stadium superintendent.

Aline is the favorite of the athletes and her apartment across from the campus is visited frequently by the players and their dates. Aline feeds them hot chocolate, crackers and cheese while the youngsters are playing rummy, listening to records or trying to fathom jigsaw puzzles.

Her biggest disappointment came in 1935 when Southern Methodist beat Texas Christian 20-14 and went to the Rose Bowl. She didn't see the touchdown pass to Bobby Wilson that won the game. Just before Bobby caught the ball Aline's knees buckled from sheer excitement. She couldn't get back up in time to see the pass completed.

The most thrilling contest she ever saw was Southern Methodist's 14-12 victory over Arkansas last fall. The winning score came as the final gun sounded—a pass from Gil Johnson to Paul Page. Here's how Aline describes it:

"That was a game than which there is no whicher."

Charley Gehringer to Be Named Into Baseball's Hall of Fame

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Sometime early in March, Charley Gehringer, former Detroit Tiger second baseman, will be elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

That Charley will get the honor by an elimination process is hard to understand. He may not have hit in a class with Rogers Hornsby (.358 for 23 years) but he ranked right up there with men like Eddie Collins (.333 for 25 years) and Frankie Frish (.316 for 19 years).

Gehringer, in 19 years as Detroit's peerless second baseman, compiled a .321 lifetime mark. In 1937, when he led the American league in hitting with .371, he was voted the league's most valuable player.

In January, Ken Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, sent a ballot to each of 153 members of 10 or more years' standing. The veteran writers were supposed to name candidates for the Hall of Fame in the 1949 election.

The one hitch was that the player elected would have to appear on 75 per cent of the ballots. To be voted to the Hall of Fame 114 votes were necessary. Gehringer just missed on the first ballot. He got 102.

"In accordance with the rules," states the second ballot, "the names of the 20 candidates receiving the highest number of votes are placed in nomination. Members of 10 years' standing are authorized by the Permanent Hall of Fame committee to vote for any five of these 20 nominated candidates. Any player appearing on 75 per cent of these final ballots shall be elected."

'Y' Five Downs Dynamiters

Grid Cagers Lose 43-38

Jim Hardy's Dynamiters were a little short handed last night, but they came close to upsetting the Ontario YMCA five in a game played before an overflow crowd at the local gym.

Such gridiron notables as Bob Waterfield, Fred Gehrke and Tom Fears didn't make it at all. As a result, Hardy was forced to use himself and Hickey at guard, with Gray and Tommy Harmon at forwards and Aubrey at center throughout the game.

Hardy proved to be a real clown, as the visitors put on a fine show. Coach Homer Clark of the Y substituted freely in the game.

The score:

Dynamiters (38)		YMCA (43)
Gray, 20	F	Morrison, 6
Harmon, 10	F	Redfield, 4
Aubrey, 6	C	Schaefer, 8
Hardy, 0	G	Deal, 0
Hickey, 2	G	Farrar, 2

Scoring Subs—Ontario: Garrison, 1; Bell, 8; Jones, 2; Heaston, 8; Spencer, 4 Dynamiters—none.

Tigers in CIF Playoff First Time Since '34

When the Chaffey Tiger basketballers go into the CIF tournament at Redondo beach two weeks hence, it will be the first time in 14 years that the Orange and Black has been represented in that event.

The 1934 club, Coach Karl Kaiser recalled today, was the last Chaffey team to participate. Kaiser-coached clubs have been in tournaments five times, have gone to the finals three times and have twice won Southern California championships.

After the 1934 season, the CBL voted a ban on post-season participation. As a result, the team didn't have an opportunity to compete for the Southland titles, although several of the clubs Kaiser coached in that period were among his best.

When the ban was finally lifted, the war years intervened, and the quality of basketball material at the local school took a marked dip. This is the first season Chaffey has been back on top since the rule was lifted.

Right now, Kaiser has his sights set on the forthcoming Beverly Hills Invitation tournament, which starts Friday. The Tiger mentor said this morning that he still has no information on what teams his boys will draw in the opening round.

How participation in this tournament will affect the club's chances in the CIF show is a question mark too. "If we go a long way in this tournament, it may hurt us at Redondo," Kaiser remarked, "on the other hand, if we went two weeks without any kind of competition, we might be off form.

WILD LIFE APPEAR TO HAVE SURVIVED WINTER'S STORMS

DENVER (AP)—Although the count is far from complete, it appears that wild game withstood this worst of western winters better than did domestic livestock. But fur, feathers and fins all took a beating.

It still is too early for detailed figures on losses in the 1949 blizzard belt. Snows must go and much checking be done before there can be even fairly accurate estimates of the number of big game animals and game birds frozen, starved and suffocated by the weather's savagery.

And not until the young begin coming in the next few weeks will the indirect effects of partial starvation and weakness among the females be reflected in abortions, stillbirths and high mortality among fawns.

Similarly, the final answers with the game birds won't come until the hatching season. Given good weather, new broods will go far toward adjusting nature's balance. But more cold, floods and freezes in the critical weeks ahead could spell disaster for pheasants and other upland birds.

In every western state wildlife of all kinds was fed in unprecedentedly large operations partly to prevent starvation and partly to keep such big eaters as the elk from descending on farmers' precious haystacks in the lower valleys. One deer even invaded the kitchen of a house at Estes Park, Colo., in its search for food.

Here are the best available capsule reports from the states:

California—Quail and fish are the chief sufferers with losses on a substantial scale expected. Shortage of feed and grit affected quail in northeast part of state.

Elk losses believed light.

Deep freezing of small streams and reservoirs feared to have killed many fish.

Wyoming—Although no figures are yet available, it appears the Wyoming herds of the red desert in the southwestern part of the state may have been badly mauled with deer and elk not nearly so hard hit.

Pheasant losses still unknown but may be moderately heavy.

Colorado — Losses among big game "about normal" — which means around 5000 deer, 400 elk, 200 antelope.

Death of around 30,000 pheasants, about 18 per cent over normal.

DeJohn Makes Garden Debut

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Joey De John, latest importation in Promoter Harry Markson's "new faces" movement, makes his fistic debut in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

If the 22-year-old Syracuse, N. Y., slugger shows anything close to his reputed socking ability against Pete Mead, he'll be made.

Punchers go over big on the main stem as well as in the other towns and a knockout triumph over Mead could propel De John into a big money shot.

This is a must for Joey and he knows it.

"I've been working just for this chance. Now that I've got it, I just have to make good," he said earnestly.

Manager Joe Netro has been bringing him along carefully for the Garden shot. Netro believes the dark-haired youngster is ready is move now.

17 Padres in First Drill

Seventeen players, the advance guard of some 40 expected in camp, started workouts yesterday at John Galvin park as the San Diego Padres set up shop for the spring training season.

Manager Bucky Harris in his first season at the S. D. helm, had a few veterans and a sprinkling of rookies out for the initial drill.

Those on hand included Max West, down from Pittsburgh, Jess Flores, Gene Thompson, Dain Cly and Johnny Barrett.

Mel Knezovich, former St. Mary's pitching star, may check in today. Knezovich was signed to a bonus contract by Cleveland and is being farmed to the Padres. Artie Wilson, Negro shortstop whose signing brought a storm of protest from the New York Yankees may also be sent to the Diegans, it was rumored.

Pitchers Al Zurisich and Xavier Resigno have both come to terms with the Padre management and are expected in momentarily. Infielder Steve Mesner is still a holdout, however.

The officials spring training roster issued by the club lists six outfielders, thirteen pitchers, five catchers and five infielders with nine rookies unclassified.

Ski Jump Tests Opening Today

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The elite of the skiing world's aristocracy—American, Norwegian and Olympic champions—were set today for the national ski jumping tests.

With Class C and senior competition out of the way yesterday, today's competition on Ecker hill, 23 miles east of here at a 6800-foot elevation in the Wasatch mountains, took on the aspect of a tournament of champions.

Forecasts of lower temperatures and ground fogs tonight cheered the riders. With perfect weather, says M. A. Strand, secretary of the host Utah Ski club, leaps of 300 feet and a new record are possible.

To Honor Cage Game's Inventor With Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Plans are underway for a national basketball hall of fame to honor the man who originated the game here in 1891.
Dr. James Naismith started the hoop game when given an assignment to develop a new sport for students of Springfield college. At first it was played with nine men on a side and real peach baskets for goals. The baskets had to be tipped upside down to get the ball out after each score.
Plans for the Springfield College Memorial building were announced yesterday by Edward Hickox, a former basketball coach at the college and a member of its advisory board.
He said the hall would be modeled after baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.
Naismith was born at Almonte, Ont., Nov. 6, 1861, and was graduated from McGill university in 1887. He was professor emeritus of physical education at Kansas university when he died at Lawrence, Kan., in 1939.
